Marbella old town restaurant guide

The Andalusian city of Marbella in southern Spain boasts 326 sunny days a year, tempting beaches, home fish restaurants and bustling tourist life. The lively seaside promenade of Paseo Marítimo, the upscale port of Puerto Banis and the atmospheric, orange-filled Historic quarter cater to all tastes. Discover the best restaurants this culinary paradise has to offer. Plaza de los Naranjos © Nan Palmero

Restaurant, Mediterranean, Spanish, European In beautiful Plaza de los Naranjos in the Old Town, this cozy and hospitable restaurant offers high quality cuisine. Paco Jimenez is named after his eponymous owner and chef, who won a gold medal at the World Gastronomic Meeting in Santa Cruz de la Sierra, Bolivia. In the warm interior of this restaurant, which is also a gallery in its own right, you can dine on the ever-changing seasonal menu. Comprised of an eclectic, creative variety of Mediterranean dishes, it includes dishes such as seafood salad, lamb rack with marmalade sauce, delicate confit of rosemary rabbit and saffron perch. Desserts are equally alluring, with tarta de Keso an all-time favorite. Restaurant, European, Contemporary, Spanish A few meters from the Old Town, Messina is a modern restaurant with an open plan, minimalist interior. Wooden floors, red chairs and cutlery are of the highest quality and glasses offer an upscale lunch. Adventure palettes can try a taster menu or one of their signature dishes such as banana crab ravioli, sea snail, tuna with papaya, sea urchin, squid sandwich, Chantilly yogurt and strawberries. Maurizio Giovanni experiments with new flavors and textures and uses local products and local classics, presenting them with his own creative twist. Restaurant, Mediterranean, Spanish, European A is a tiny but alluring restaurant where the atmosphere conjures up a long-gone era. Garnacha offers excellent and innovative food with an artistic presentation. Warm shades of the interior, a large mirror on the wall and fancy chairs and tables create a warm and cozy environment. Dishes are served in full, half or tapas portions and offer exotic combinations such as foie gras with apple crumble and grated almonds, duck magret with caramelized pineapple, tuna tartare and octopus. Creativity in abundance and perfectly balanced aromas are accompanied by an interesting wine spice. For the desert, white chocolate cake with ice cream or chocolate pendant with passion fruit sauce are a great choice. It is a small gem at a reasonable price where reservations are needed. Restaurant, European, Italian, Spanish, Mediterranean This is a masterpiece of Sandro Morelli, one of the most famous restaurateurs in Spain. Villa Tiberio is surrounded by 6,000 square meters of Italian gardens, lush trees, and semi-tropical vegetation. Statues, waterfalls, rose bushes and lilac flowers adorn vast areas where diplomats, royals, celebrities, locals and tourists can enjoy banquet or intimate dinner. The menu is innovative with many tempting dishes such as fantasy fungi, pappardelle al Sandro, osso bucco a la Milanese and spaghetti with clam sauce. The choice of wine is equally fabulous, including Romane Conti Grand Cru 1973, Tignanello Antinori, 1938 Chateau Margaux among others. Restaurant, European, Mediterranean, Spanish, $$$ delicious menu, friendly atmosphere, live tango, flamenco and other events and exhibitions organized throughout the year rank Soiluna as one of the friendliest restaurants in Marbella. With high ceilings, beautiful decoration and a large fireplace, it is a warm and elegant place to enjoy dinner on a cold winter night. Also, on a warm and balmy summer evening, customers can enjoy a spacious terrace overlooking a beautiful garden with a swimming pool. Meat and seafood dishes of the highest quality and sources locally and Sunday barbecue buffet brunch are highly recommended. Restaurant, European, Spanish, Mediterranean, $$$ Original Spanish cuisine in an Andalusian atmosphere, the tapas Marbella Patio have won local awards for their original taste and interesting presentation. Located in a 16th century building next to the castle walls, this is a great stop if you want to visit a Moorish monument. Bold decor tiles and a patio against an ancient city wall can transport customers into the past. Salmorejo, paella, fillet steak and house special pig sucking, all original recipes with a modern touch, freshly cooked and offer excellent value for money. Restaurant, European, Spanish, Mediterranean Tatar in Skin Courtesy Skina Skina is a Michelin-starred Marbella restaurant, replete with a taste of creativity and an impressive culinary experience. A variety of inventive tapas, such as deer ham with celery, lobster tartare with strawberries, roasted pigeon flakes, orange cream with carrot ice cream and homemade bread, are all based on traditional dishes from the Region of Malaga. The restaurant's design is bold and dominates the glazed wine cellar. Private lessons and internships are also organized by Skina Restaurant for those who want to try their hand at creating culinary magic. Restaurant, Mediterranean, $$$ A very spacious art deco restaurant with candlelit tables and large Roman gardens, La Meridiana offers visitors a great place to enjoy excellent Mediterranean dishes. From classic options to more adventurous choices, Benjamin Aloza's creations are inspired and authentic, and the ingredients are of excellent quality. Apollonia malagueño and glazed artichokes, red fruit salmorejo, white chocolate soufflé with Grand Marnier, all accompanied by an additional selection of wines and delicious cocktails can be enjoyed in a beautiful colonial setting. We've been going to Marbella Patio for years, and I don't know why I've never reviewed! Pedro gives gives The warm welcome and atmosphere of the restaurant, especially in the patio at the back, corresponds to the reception. The food has always been excellent - the fish cooked under salt was a special specialty, although vegetarian paella is always excellent. Recent changes have refreshed the menu and there is a really good main course of tuna that tuna lovers in my family rave about. It's Spain, after all! Long can Pedro and his team continue to serve excellent food in an atmospheric place, with such attentive service.
